Introducing... KUKANA Keyworker

recognition for staff who provide our health, education and emergency services

In times of stress - and particularly if you work in a stressful environment - the need to take time out for yourself, to relax - and perhaps have a bit of pampering - is very important.

The problem is, we don't always do that; there's always something more important and then our own needs get left behind.

But unless you're at your physical and mental best, dealing with stress is more difficult - it's a vicious circle: you're stressed and so dealing with more stress is even more difficult but you learn to live with the tense muscles, sleepless nights, aches and pains - and perhaps others are having to learn to live with you and your stress.

When we designed KUKANA we built in a sense of luxury and comfort - large treatment rooms that aid relaxation; special tables that are wider, longer, softer; lighting and music to create the perfect environment for relaxing.

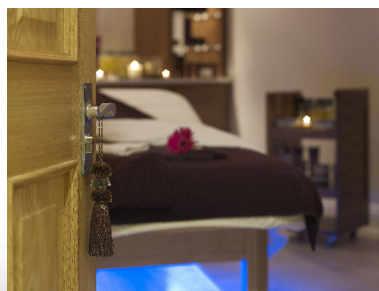

And now we have KUKANA Keyworker - a little something that recognises all of those people who provide our healthcare, education and emergency services.

The way it works is simple: try one of the selected treatments below at a silly price and if you then want to join the scheme for FREE, we'll give you 10% off every treatment from then on.
